

Waste to Wealth in Africa:

Improving urban landscapes
through sustainable enterprises

Open from 13 April – 12 June 2015

The Building Centre, London WC1E 7BT

A photography exhibition by Living Earth Foundation
www.livingearth.org.uk

This innovative photographic exhibition explores the pioneering work of Living Earth Foundation in transforming environmental problems in African slums into opportunities for sustainable urban enterprises.

In Cameroon, Kenya, Uganda, Nigeria, and Sierra Leone, African micro-entrepreneurs are leading the way in harnessing waste recycling technologies that have positive impacts beyond the waste sector, from drainage ditch clearance to job creation, and from road building to reducing school fees.

The exhibition demonstrates the effectiveness of slum residents, local councils, and the private sector working together to tackle the challenges of waste management in African cities.

Photography: Marcus Wilson-Smith/Living Earth

Supported by

About Living Earth Foundation

Established in 1987, Living Earth Foundation is a UK charity with a unique portfolio of international projects and programmes that support local communities to resolve their environmental and socio-economic concerns, often in complex and difficult circumstances. Living Earth Foundation works through local partners, currently in five countries in Africa, and recently in countries as diverse as Russia, Iran, Scotland and Alaska. Priority areas include: enterprise development, energy innovation, and ecosystem protection.

To support our work in Africa, please visit:

www.livingearth.org.uk/donations

Living Earth Foundation, 5 Great James Street, London, WC1N 3DB
Tel: + 44 (0) 20 7440 9750 Email: info@livingearth.org.uk

Living Earth Foundation is a company limited by guarantee with no share capital registered in England and Wales (registration no. 2332585) and a registered charity (charity no. 800672).